RECREATION ACCESS PERMIT (RAP)

All personnel 16 years of age and older are required to obtain the Army or Eielson Air Force Base (EAFB) Recreation access permit (RAP) before participating in their respective activity on Interior Army lands. Hunters of all ages must have a recreation access permit if hunting on EAFB. Anglers under 16 must have a Recreation access permit on EAFB if they are not accompanied by an adult. You can obtain your Army RAP at the Fort Wainwright Military Police (MP) Station at the front gate or the Donnelly Training Area (TA) Natural Resources Office during regular business hours. At this time a safety liability release must be signed, and the Recreation access permit is issued. The RAP is valid until December 31, 2004. Permits must be renewed on or after January 1, 2005.

Two things must be done before entering Fort Wainwright Lands

- 1. Obtain a Recreation Access Permit from Fort Wainwright, Donnelly Training Area or Eielson AFB*
- 2. Check into an area by using the USARTRAK Recreation Access Phone Line*

Procedure for use of the USARAK Recreation Access Phone Line:

Fairbanks/North Pole/Eielson housing area: 353-3181

Eielson AFB if calling from a 377 prefix: 384 3181

Delta Junction area: 873-3181

Anchorage area: 384-3181

You will need a copy of the USARTRAK check in system brochure, or call the Natural Resources office to learn the training area numbers.

- Range Closures will be noted within the telephone message. These messages are updated weekly and will list which areas of post are closed for training or other purposes.
- Groups can be checked in by entering multiple permit numbers at the beginning of the check-in process, eliminating numerous calls
- You can check in for a day or for the week if you are camping
- You can check in 24 hours in advance

When prompted, enter your recreation access permit (RAP) number.

When prompted press the number of the installation you wish to enter. Fort Wainwright, Fort Richardson and Donnelly Training Area (formerly Fort Greely).

Next you will be asked which major activity you will be participating in. Press the number corresponding with your intended activity. The list includes: 1) big game hunting, 2) small game hunting, 3) fishing, 4) ORRV use, 5) trapping, 6) firewood/Christmas tree cutting, 7) and Other (berry picking, birdwatching, sightseeing, hiking etc).

Under each of the main installations are large training areas. You will be asked which one you will be entering.

Fort Wainwright consists of the Tanana Flats TA, the Yukon TA, and the Main Post.
Donnelly Training Area consists of Gerstle River TA, Donnelly East and Donnelly West.
Fort Richardson is made up of 31 smaller training areas.

The larger training areas are further subdivided. You will need to use the USARTRAK check in system brochure to check into these areas.

This will complete your phone system check in requirements for entry onto US Army Garrison Lands in Alaska.

OFF-LIMITS AREAS

Training areas on Fort Wainwright (including Donnelly and Gerstle River TA) may be temporarily closed during military training exercises. These closures are listed on a weekly recording at Donnelly/Gerstle River TA: 873-4713, and are indicated in the Donnelly Training Areas when the red flags are flying at major entrance points near the Richardson Highway. Weekly closures will also be listed on the USARTRAK recreation check in phone system.

All recreational users are responsible for knowing and obeying these temporary closures. For further clarification regarding off limits areas call the Range Control Offices listed on page 1.
